

California's Gun Violence Restraining Order:

A PREVENTION TOOL TO SUPPORT VETERANS

"My grandpa has struggled with depression since he was a young man in the military. My grandma is worried because he recently told her that she would be better off without him. I know he has many guns in his home. I'm worried he might try to hurt himself—what can I do?"

"I'm a caseworker for a veteran who has PTSD. He has recently been having violent outbursts. His family is concerned because he has several guns in his home. What advice can I give them to help protect themselves and others?"

A NEW LAW CAN HELP!

California's Gun Violence Restraining Order (GVRO) is a law that allows teachers, school employees, co-workers, employers, family, household members, and law enforcement to obtain a court order to prevent an at-risk person from accessing guns, ammunition, or magazines and that temporarily prohibits that person from purchasing or obtaining any new guns, ammunition, or magazines*. The firearm removal and purchase restriction can last from 21 days to five years, depending on the type of order, and what the judge thinks is appropriate. A final GVRO, lasting between one and five years, can be renewed before it expires if the danger still exists.

*Magazines are ammunition storage and feeding devices which can often be detached from a firearm.

Note: If you or someone you know is in immediate danger, please contact local law enforcement or dial 911. California's veteran crisis line is also available by calling 1-800 273-8255 and pressing 1.

WHO CAN REQUEST A GVRO AND HOW DO YOU GET ONE?

Teachers, school employees, co-workers, employers, family and household members and law enforcement officers can file a petition to obtain a GVRO with the Superior Court where the person to be restrained resides. If you're a professional working with veterans, you cannot petition directly for a GVRO (unless you live in the same household or have in the last six months). However, if a client has risk factors such as an emotional crisis or dementia or is demonstrating signs of being dangerous such as suicidal ideation, aggression, public threats of violence, or other dangerous behaviors, you can consider contacting your local sheriff or police department, or advising a client's family member, employer, or school about the GVRO. Educating veterans and families about the GVRO can help reduce the potential for danger when a gun is present in the home of someone who is at risk of harming themselves or others.

A CIVIL ACTION

The GVRO is a civil procedure, not a criminal one. The goal is to ensure safety and allow the respondent of the GVRO the opportunity to heal or stabilize. However, if the order is violated, the respondent may be charged with a misdemeanor crime. Only when the order expires or is terminated may firearms and ammunition be returned to the restrained person.

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT CALIFORNIA'S GVRO

- If you think someone poses an immediate danger to themselves or others, you can contact law enforcement directly. They can request an emergency GVRO over the phone, even if it is not during normal court hours.
- If a final order is obtained, before it expires, the petitioner may file for the renewal of a GVRO with the court if the respondent of the GVRO is still a risk to him or herself or others.
- A GVRO officially starts on the day of the hearing and the duration of the GVRO is determined based on the number of years from that date.
- If someone is being threatened directly by a spouse, partner, or someone in their family or household, they may petition for a Domestic Violence Restraining Order (DVRO). See Form DV-500-INFO for more information.
- If the petitioner is under 18, a guardian would need to file on their behalf (i.e., a parent or legal guardian).
- If someone is being threatened directly by an employee or co-worker, the employer can file for a Workplace Violence Restraining Order on the behalf of themselves or an employee, under California Code, Code of Civil Procedure CCP § 527.8. Visit this website for more information.
- If someone is being stalked, harassed, sexually assaulted, or threatened with violence you can seek a Civil Harassment Restraining Order. See Form CH-100-INFO (Can a Civil Harassment Restraining Order Help Me?)
- The VA's Rocky Mountain MIRECC for Suicide Prevention has a free consultation program that is now available to any clinician who works with any veteran at risk for suicide.
- Veterans and their loved ones can call 1-800-273-8255 (press 1) for advice or help at any time of day or night, regardless of whether they are in crisis, suicidal, or not.

DID YOU KNOW?

- More than half of all gun deaths in California are suicides according to the CDC.
- A 2017 study examined the results of a similar law in Connecticut and estimated that for every 10 to 20 orders removing firearms issued, at least one suicide was prevented.
- A study from the UC Davis School of Medicine identified 21 cases where researchers believe a GVRO helped prevent a potential mass shooting. The lead author of the study, Dr. Garen J. Wintemute, said "I think the evidence suggests that extreme risk protection orders have a role to play in preventing mass shootings, but also in preventing firearm suicide and homicide."

- On September 1, 2020, 4 new GVRO bills went into effect. AB 61 expanded the list of eligible GVRO petitioners to include certain teachers, school employees, co-workers, and employers. AB 1493 created an option for the subject of a GVRO to voluntarily surrender their firearms and not contest the GVRO. AB 339 called on law enforcement departments to create official procedures for requesting and enacting a GVRO. AB 12 allows judges to set the duration of a final order between one to five years.
- In a poll by Aging Life Care Association on the presence of firearms in elders' homes, over one-third of professionals surveyed said they either frequently or sometimes had guns in their clients' homes, and several respondents recounted stories of suicides by clients that took place while professional caregivers were in the home.
